13th -15th of April 2011

2nd Call for Papers

The Training and Research Group on Public Service Translation and Interpreting (FITISPos) at the University of Alcalá (UAH) (Madrid, Spain) are pleased to announce the 4th International Conference on Public Service Translation and Interpreting (8th International Meeting on Translation) to be hosted at the UAH, on the 13th-15th of April 2011.

This conference is intended to offer PSIT researchers, practitioners, trainers, academics, public service authorities and people who are generally interested in intercultural communication and in translation and interpreting, a forum for dialogue in this new society which is being shaped at a global level, as well as an opportunity to exchange opinions and comment projects and experiences like the previous ones, held in 2002, 2005 and 2008.

Being the main theme of the Conference: Future in the Present: Public Service Interpreting and Translation in the Wild Wired World (PSIT in WWW) we encourage all those who are interested in it to send proposals on the following topics:
1. ICTs and Interpreting and Translation
2. Remote Interpreting
3. Intercultural Communication and technologies: progress and application
4. The interpreter "at distance"
5. Applications of new technologies in translation and/or interpreting
6. Training of translators and interpreters based on new technologies
8. Advances in finding common solutions between public and educational institutions

The Conference will include plenary lectures, papers, seminars, posters and round tables. Participants delivering papers will have a maximum of 30 min (the discussion/questions time included). The official languages will be Spanish and English.

All those who are interested in participating are kindly asked to send a 200-word abstract before November 30th, 2010 using the following webpage: http://tisp2011.tucongreso.es/en/presentacion
The decision of the Scientific Committee will be sent by December 10th, 2010.

Registration must also be done using the following webpage: http://tisp2011.tucongreso.es/en/presentacion

Proposers whose papers are accepted will have to submit the WHOLE PAPER TEXT by 20th of January 2011 using the same webpage, otherwise they WILL NOT BE INCLUDED IN THE CONFERENCE’S PROCEEDINGS.

Looking forward to seeing you in Alcalá!
